> BUYING RESOURCES ONLINE

How do we find resources that will be awesome for our therapy room or for our families?

It can be hard to remember where you see awesome resources, especially when seeing children with less common presentations. We have put together a list of some of our favourite shops.

Information on Buying Resources Online is listed below.

Sensibilities

Why we love it ♥

SenseAbilities contains equipment and resources designed to assist with the sensory motor development of children. It provides supplies for parents, Occupational Therapists, Speech Therapists, Physiotherapists, Teachers and other allied health professionals, as well as to people wanting to have a little fun with sensory toys.

Social Thinking Australia

This website offers a wide range of products available for order that all revolve around learning and teaching social skills. A good site when looking at teaching those “bright but socially clueless students” that needed more information than just what social skill to use. They needed to know why they should bother to use that skill.

Tasks Galore

Why we love it ♥

Educators in public school systems, home education settings, private therapeutic settings and federally funded programs across the country have discovered how useful the Tasks Galore can be in developing individualised opportunities to enhance student achievement.

Sensory Matters

Why we love it ♥

Sensory Matters is a wonderful website with lots of great tools that can help out all of our sensory seeker and avoiders. If you have any questions, I would recommend talking to Julie – she is a super experienced OT and loves the sensory aspect of our kidlets!
