Toileting

Toileting is a tricky skill to learn! A child has to have sufficient fine and gross motor skills (to stabilise themselves and to get the toilet paper), as well as understanding, communication, body awareness, timing and the list goes on!!

Some kids take longer to learn toileting, or seem to have difficulty learning these skills “naturally.” These children may need to be taught these skills. For parents – talk to your Occupational Therapist as well, as they can help!!

Information on Toileting is listed below.

Toilet Time

Why we love it ♥

Toilet Time is a resource for health professionals and educators. It is used when conducting workshops or developing individual programs for parents/carers who are toilet training young children with developmental delays.

Resources include checklists, resource sheets, visual cue cards, story books, parent/carer booklets and a CD with PowerPoints and overhead presentations.
